H. Victor Chiang M.D., Ph.D. went to rebirth on August 16, 2008, at the age of 61. Over 400 people attended his memorial service. He was a renowned, compassionate, and distinguished gastroenterologist and internal medicine doctor serving the metropolitan Washington D.C. area for more than 20 years.

Dr. Chiang always took the time to get to know his patients and loved learning about their lives beyond the medical context. He had a genuine compassion towards the people in his life. During his over 20 years practice, on numerous occasions, Dr. Chiang was named by the Washingtonian Magazine and the Consumers Research Council of America as one of the Washington, D.C.'s top doctors.

Dr. Chiang was an active member of the Chinese and Taiwanese community, providing several educational scholarships to the community's youth each year. Despite his hectic and busy schedule, he would often take the time and participate in Pan-Asian volunteer health clinic, among other charity health events.

At the end of February and the beginning of March, Dr. Chiang felt back pain. On March 20th, a CT Scan confirmed that he had stage IV lung cancer that already spread to the spine. Mrs. Alice Chiang began to repent on Dr. Chiang's behalf in front of the Buddha and recited the Great Compassion Mantra from morning to night asking for blessings from Buddhas, Bodhisattvas, and the Venerable Master. In the afternoon of July 27th, Dr. Chiang agreed to take refuge with the Triple Jewel and received the five precepts. Under the skillful and expedient teaching of Dharma Masters and family members, Dr. Chiang was able to totally let go of his worries and recite Buddha's name vigorously at ease. Before the end of his life, Dr. Chiang saw that Amitabha had come to pick up him.

In all that he accomplished in his life, Dr. Chiang maintained a decidedly modest character. Of the many things Dr. Chiang will be remembered for, his sincere demeanor, zealous work ethic, warm smile, sense of humor, and unyielding dedication to family, friends, and patients, are particularly radiant. His life was a model of goodness and generosity, and he will be celebrated by all who knew him. Dr. Chiang is survived by his wife Alice and their son Andy, as well as his mother and six siblings.
